Step by step support for PRTR | Bullhorn implementation

Transition from Vincere

Enhanced data migration

Comprehensive user and admin training

Frustrated with their old system and the limited insights it provided, PRTR set out to find a more user-friendly solution with stronger analytics and performance tracking. They chose Bullhorn to transform the way they work - partnering with Kyloe Partners to make the transition a success.

"Due to our size, it was a very complex data migration and set up process and Kyloe really helped to break this down into small manageable steps. Without their step-by-step support we would have been completely lost."

How did the project go?

"It was a complex implementation with approximately 2TB of messy data to sort through, organise and then migrate. This was done very thoroughly and any hurdle we encountered along the way, Kyloe was always there to help us figure out a solution.

We were closely supported in setting up all the key integrations and the progressive phase by phase nature of the project really helped us stay on track and not become too overwhelmed. We delivered each stage of the implementation on time and any delays we faced were kept to an absolute minimum with the help of the Kyloe team."

How did Kyloe help you?

"Kyloe was very helpful throughout. The pre-implementation process was clearly laid out and all the key details and stages were meticulously planned and well communicated with us. Due to our size, it was a very complex data migration and set up process and Kyloe really helped to break this down into small manageable steps. Without their step-by-step support we would have been completely lost."

Would you recommend Kyloe Partners?

"Yes, I would - Kyloe is very detailed and professional, and we really felt like we were working together with them. If you give them a problem, they'll find a way to solve it and believe me we gave them quite a few. They always took time out to understand and come up with solutions for us to always keep the implementation project on track."

How has it impacted your business?

"We're still very much in the fine-tuning stage of the system and integrations now, so are yet to see the full impact - however we are now able to bring more and more of our internal processes into Bullhorn and moving away from any external manual work.

With some additional work configuring Analytics and Automation to work in tandem with the ATS, we will soon be able to work almost entirely inside Bullhorn and start to see a significant impact on business output and process efficiencies."
