Technical Resources are a UK-based specialist recruitment agency that has been connecting businesses with technical talent since 2000. When their existing system began holding them back (with frequent downtime and limited integration capability) they made the move to Bullhorn with Kyloe Partners as their implementation partner.

"They approached the project in a curious way and really got to know what we needed and helped configure the system around that. They asked all the right questions and made sure it was personal to us."

Why move to Bullhorn?

Moving away from a system that was limiting their growth, Technical Resources made the switch to Bullhorn - bringing better integrations, automation, and analytics with it.

"We were kind of locked in - we couldn't integrate with any other systems very well. It was quite an old system that had a lot of crashes and downtime and we wanted to move to something a bit more up to date and able to integrate with some other programmes that we were looking to make use of."

Navigating the implementation

"The Kyløe team were really good at guiding us through the process and it was well organised from day one - especially getting to see the Gantt chart of everything that we had to go through. They kept us honest in terms of what we needed to do in between each deadline and milestone. The training was thorough and they made sure that we understood everything as we went through it all."

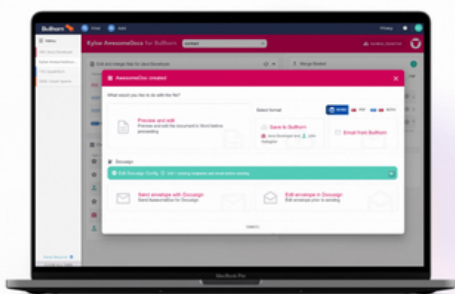

Tailored for success

"Kyløe also suggested some additional configuration work around data validation - that helped boost the integrity of the data, making sure everything was how it should be for placements and that bits weren't left off. When I had my aftercare call, I didn't really have much to go through - I suppose that was because they had done such a good job beforehand!"

How would you describe Kyløe in three words?

"Supportive, helpful, and curious."

Filling the gap in Bullhorn

"From the scoping stage, we didn't really feel like Bullhorn had an inbuilt ability to send out documents properly. Kyløe AwesomeDocs was a great fit, we use it everyday and send out hundreds of documents every week! We also didn't have the ability to add e-signatures previously, so it's great we now have that ability!"
